

What can you do at a walking festival?

Walking festivals are a great way to enjoy the mountains at a different pace, and in the company of local guides who love the land.

Lasting between two and seven days, the festivals offer walking routes for all levels of ability at lower-than-usual rates.

In parallel, organised activities allow you to experience local culture and gastronomy first-hand: tastings, museum visits, concerts, dance performances, book launches, etc.

This year marks the 4th edition of the Pyrenean Walking Festivals. And there's now more than ever on offer, with 11 festivals held between May and October across the regions and valleys of the Pyrenees.

- Guided walking routes
- Affordable rates
- Tastings
- Concerts
- Book launches
- Hiking gear markets
- And much, much more!
